

Adrienne Lindholm

Adrienne's memoir It Happened Like This: A Life in Alaska

(Mountaineers Books, August 2018) is a female driven outdoor narrative which details her inspirational experience as a transplant to Alaska and beginning a career in environmental studies—initially as a backcountry ranger in Denali yearning to “unlock the secrets of Alaska wilderness” and now, years later, overseeing the complex National Park Service Wilderness Stewardship Program in Alaska. She is inspired by wild unhindered places, the flash of wonder in her daughter's eyes, and passionate friends and strangers who work to create a more compassionate and just world.
