

Erin Coughlin Hollowell Biography

Erin Coughlin Hollowell is a poet and writer who lives in Homer, Alaska, on the land of the Dena'ina, Sugpiaq, and Alutiiq people. She is the author of two full-length poetry collections Pause, Traveler (2013) and Every Atom (2018), both published by Boreal Books, an imprint of Red Hen Press. She has been awarded two Rasmuson Foundation Fellowships, a Connie Boochever Award, and an Alaska Literary Award. Her work has been most recently published in Orion Magazine, Prairie Schooner, Alaska Quarterly Review, Terrain.org, and Sugar House Review. She is the executive director of Storyknife Writers Retreat and the director of the Kachemak Bay Writers' Conference.